Leading Innovation

"Innovation distinguishes between a leader and a follower."

~ Steve Jobs

In today's environment, the public and non-profit sectors are being challenged more and more to be creative in the way they deliver their services. The problem in many organizations is that they have not been expected to be innovative in the past. Routine practices were favored as safe and compliant. Now we need leaders who can encourage creativity and innovation. This class explores how to move to a more creative environment.
